Good night, Mr. Indepondent, your political goose is done to a turn. Batler served fully seven years for his Rachel-the governorship of Massachusetts.

If at first you don't succeed, try, try again. From "Sober Reflections," by Ben Butler. If Republicanism is dead, as Davis. Jones & Co. say, they certainly will admit voting time. This comet cratic one; at least, the Independents are trying to saddle the whole disaster on the comet and-Davis. John Ince says that the new capito will be the largest adobe building in the world, as it takes 3,000,000 acres of panhandle mud to build it. Wonder what Mr. Grant thinks about he political somersault the country has taken? Bet two dollars to a half he thinks Arthur a mighty poor dictator.

Is it not possible that Morten was chosen as a candidate by the Independents on account of his name being so like Martin's? We can see no other reason. Anna Dickinson no longer pants to ote, since she wore them in "Hamlet. Nothing like playing man for a little while, if you want to learn; is there,

When asked by her manager how he liked Dickinson's "Hamlet," John Ince replied: "Anna is immense, but the piece is darn bad; ought to get Leonard Grover to work it over." It was a rather hot "norther" which the ndependents received this week in Texas, and it will be some time before the defeated candidates recover from its effects and get properly cooled down. The terrible convulsions which the country has been thrown into during the past few days are now over, and a justice of the peace and hide inspector have been elected. America breathes more
